To RALPH FREEMAN, Esq;

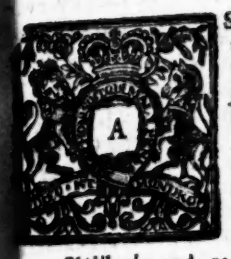
SIR,



AS I perceive you are willing to indulge a Correſpondence with all extraordinary Perſonages, I thought a Letter from me might be as well received as from any other famous Man. You muſt know, Sir, that, tho' I ſay it, I have made a very remarkable Figure from my very Childhood; and as in one's tender Years thoſe Marks of Genius frequently break out which ſerve to adorn our Characters in ſucceeding Times, ſo, in reſpect to me, while a Boy, I was admired for the ſame Abilities which at preſent render me the Darling of all who know me. You will eaſily, if you are a great Philoſopher, diſcern, that this Excellency of Mind muſt have been derived from Nature: So indeed it is; my Sagacity, like the ſecond Sight of a Highlander, was born with me, and I have been an Adept in the Science I profeſs from the very Cradle. But perhaps, Sir, you will be impatient to know what this Science is. Truth, a very neceſſary one: I cure Diſorders of the Mind as ſucceſsfully as a Seventh Son does the King's Evil. At Nine Years old, I cured Numbers of my Play-Fellows of the Mully-grubs; by that Time I was Eleven, my Fame was ſo much increaſed, that I was ſent for twenty Miles to a Boarding-School in Wales to free the young Ladies of the Sullens; in which I ſucceeded perfectly, notwithſtanding that in many it was look'd upon as an hereditary Diſtemper; and ſeveral eminent Phyſicians had given their Opinions, that nothing could be done without change of Air. Judge you, Sir, if this was not enough to make a young Fellow vain, which my Friends tell me is my Foible; and as every Man has his Foible, I hope, Sir, if it ſhould be ſo, that you will paſs it by. I muſt acknowledge that I have a peculiar Pleaſure in talking of my own Actions, but this appears to me to be ſo common a Fault, that, were I much preſſed upon it, I think I ſhould put it to the Vote, in which Caſe I make no doubt that it would be declared no Fault at all.

AT the Univerſity I had great Practice; I cured Nine Doctors of Surlineſs, Five Tutors of Indolence, and near Thirty Maſters of Arts of an Itch to Drinking, by that eaſy Method of taking away their Credit. It is true, I did not get much Reputation by theſe Cures, becauſe College Secrets are very carefully kept, eſpecially where there is nothing to be got by divulging them. However, to ſpeak the Truth, I met with ſome Patients here who were too hard for me. For Example; out of Pride, I undertook to cure three Scholars of Lownging, but, to my Sorrow, was not able to effect it in one. I likewiſe tried to make half a Dozen Bed-makers keep conſtant to their Profeſſions, but had the Mortification to find that my Medicines had no other Effect than to put them upon making Beds three times a Day. This put me ſo much out of Humour, that I determined to travel, in hopes of diſcovering new Secrets in my Profeſſion, by converſing with the Virtuoſi in Foreign Parts. With this View, I made the grand Tour of France, Italy, Germany and Holland, and returned to my native Country ſomewhat more than a Twelve-Month ago, full fraught both with the Theory and Practice of intellectual Phyſick, and with an intire Confidence in my own Abilities of curing any Patient, let his Caſe be what it would.

As the Town was a little empty, I was prevailed on by a Friend to go down with him into Somerſetſhire; where I had not been long before the Wife of a certain Knight came to conſult me on her Husband's Caſe. She told me he had labour'd for many Years under a Complication of Political Diſtempers, and that in endeavouring to obtain a Cure, he had waſted the greateſt Part of his Eſtate. At her earneſt Requeſt, I viſited him, and had no ſooner felt his Pulſe in a philoſophical Way, than I diſcovered the Gentleman was in a high Fever: I immediately reſolved on a cooling Regimen; and, after three Weeks Attendance, began to conceive great Hopes of my Patient. But a Horſe Race happening in the Neighbourhood, he would needs go thither, in ſpite of all I could ſay to the contrary. There he met with ſome of his old Companions; they drank and rambled together for two or three Days, and when I viſited him a little after at his own Houſe, he was abſolutely light headed, and out of the Reach of Medicine. I left him therefore, after having given his Lady a little good Advice; which was, to take Care of the Family, as well as ſhe could, and to bear patiently with her Husband's Madneſs.

THE Pains I took about the Somerſetſhire Knight were not all thrown away; a Relation of his took me into his Chariot to Scarborough, and on the Road gave me the following Account of Lord Eaſy. He is, ſaid he, a Nobleman who has many good Qualities without one Virtue; his principal Malady is an over-flowing Wit, which has ſuch an effect on his Actions, that, if you did not hear the Man ſpeak, you would take him for the greateſt Fool in the World. Play is his Buſineſs, Sharpers his Companions, and a high Run of Raillery his utmoſt Delight. In one Word, he is a Meteor in Converſation, and yet does not diſcover a Spark of Underſtanding in the common Occurrence of Life. I told my Friend, that I could ſay nothing to him till I had ſeen him. After three Weeks intimate Acquaintance with him at the Spaw, I deliver'd my Judgment to his Friend and mine in theſe Words: His Malady is a Mental Gutta Serena; it is not yet ripe, and I am afraid, as he grows in Years, he will be quite dark. This Judgment of mine coinciding exactly with the Opinion of Sir Robert Wiſeman, an excellent Phyſician, who had been conſulted on the ſame Caſe, eſtabliſhed my Character, tho' a little at the Expence of my Patient.

WHILE I was at Scarborough, I became acquainted with a North Country Gentleman and his Wife. The Lady was a very ſenſible Woman, and much afflicted at ſome hereditary Infirmities with which her Huſband was troubled. It fell out very luckily, that I gueſs'd exactly at the Cauſe of his Diſeaſe; and having inſtructed the Lady how to prepare and apply the proper Remedies, which I aſſur'd her might be more effectually done by herſelf than by any Phyſician, I ſaw them in Town this Winter, with great Satisfaction, the eaſieſt and happieſt Couple in the World; the Gentleman intirely free from his old-faſhion'd Notions, and their unlucky Concomitants, and the Lady without the leaſt Tincture of thoſe Uneaſineſſes which were formerly wont to cloud by Fits the moſt chearful, agreeable Temper that could be imagin'd. Indeed I have found, that People of that Country are, generally ſpeaking, hopeful Patients, and that a certain Medicine I could mention, is a kind of never-failing Specifick when they are troubled with the Vapours.

THE Seaſon being over, I came to Town, and, at the Requeſt of a Reverend Divine, undertook the Care of Henry Hotſpur, Eſq; When I firſt viſited him, he had a Cacoethes Scribendi, which afflicted him dreadfully: He was at it Morning, Noon and Night; and whenever the Pen was out of his Hand, he repeated his Performances with the Vociferation of a Player. I muſt confeſs I was never ſo puzzled in my Life; but finding my whole Reputation lay at Stake, I reſolved to venture on a Method which, 'till then, I had always laughed at. I procured a certain Tripod to be engraven in Braſs, and engaged his Valet de Chambre to lay it by Way of Amulet upon his Standiſh. This had the deſired Effect. The firſt Time he came to write, he ſtared upon the Figure with an Air of Madneſs, threw his Papers in the Fire, bid his Servant deny him to all who came to ſpeak with him, and was very eaſily perſuaded to go over to the South of France, there to expect a perfect Recovery.

As the Town began to fill, I had Variety of Patients; for you muſt know that all Political Ailments rage moſt in the Winter, and, like Agues, go off of themſelves with the warm Weather. For my own Conveniency, as well as that of my Viſitants, I took a ſnug Houſe in the Pariſh of St. James's, gave my Advice every Morning, and viſited the Sick every Afternoon. To run into a long Detail of the ſingular Caſes I have met with, would fire my Pen and your Patience at the ſame Time; let it ſuffice that I inform you, that this Winter has ſhewn me ſtranger Sights than I had met with in all my Practice before. About the Month of January a new Diſtemper appeared, which obtain'd the Name of a Spaniſh Vertigo, and a very dangerous Thing it was. Moſt of the Patients under my Care were light-headed for many Days together; after which their Spirits being quite exhauſted, they fell into a Kind of Lethargy, out of which many are not recover'd yet, notwithſtanding all the Care that could be taken of them, ſo that I am afraid, at laſt, we muſt have recourſe to Bliſtering and Spaniſh Flies.

TO the Spaniſh Vertigo ſucceeded another Diſeaſe, called by the Learned a Poliſh Ague, I preſume becauſe it is frequent in that Country. My Patients were cold in the laſt Degree, nor could they be perſuaded to quit their own Houſes, either to take the Air, or mind their Buſineſs, by any Arguments that could be uſed. On the contrary, they were quite lifeleſs; they gave up every thing, and talk'd of nothing but Death and Repentance, ſo that I was forced ſometimes to call in the Aſſiſtance of the Prieſt. Some of them indeed, after ſeveral Weeks Illneſs, recover'd their Spirits a little, and walk'd about, but they ſtill continued to have a mighty Averſion for Buſineſs; and tho' they were ever ſo near the Place where their Affairs called them, they continued ſtirring and loytering about, nor could all the Eloquence in the World engage them to walk in and ſit down. As I take this to be a Sort of Snake-like Affection, I hope a warm Summer may awaken their Faculties, make them caſt their Skins, and ſend them to Town in the Autumn in full Spirits.

THE latter End of February, the whole Month of March, and the Beginning of April, were tolerably healthy; but the latter Part of the laſt-mentioned Month, and all May, were exceſſively ſickly, which ſome attributed to the unuſual Coolneſs of the Weather, others to Miſts blown from the French Coaſts; but whatever was the Occaſion, the moody Megrim was almoſt a general Complaint. This Diſtemper hath indeed been always common in our Climate, yet I think I never knew it prevail ſo much as this Year, nor did I ever obſerve it attended with ſuch dangerous Symptoms. Thoſe I had to do with were firſt gloomy, then frantick, at laſt heavy, and ſuddenly frantick again. Anodynes did not operate ſo kindly as they were wont. To ſpeak my Mind freely, I believe the golden Cordial would have taken off the Fever for the moſt Part, becauſe I obſerv'd that when the Patients were light-headed, they railed exceſſively againſt it, which, in Political Ailments, is held a ſure Sign of an Inclination to a thing; but it was not to be had, and ſo many were loſt. I ſhould have given you an Account of my Proceedings before this Time, had I not been ſo hurried that I had ſcarce Time to eat or drink. From Morning till Night I had continual Applications. Lord This-Thing had the Vapours; Lord T'other was Squeamiſh; Sir Such-a-one had a Load at his Stomach; Squire What d'you call-him was bad all over; nay, three or four of the Reverend Clergy were a little out of Sorts, but they are, God be thank'd, perfectly recover'd again. And I hope I ſhall now have a little Leiſure to go to Vaux Hall, and refreſh myſelf, after all this Fatigue. I take the Liberty of adding to this Letter of mine a ſhort Sketch of the Havock made by Folly this Seaſon, which ſhall conclude me,

From the London Gazette.

Whitehall, June 19. The following Paper is published by Order of the Truſtees named in an Act of Parliament, intitled, 'An Act for providing a Reward to Joanna Stephens, upon a proper Diſcovery to be made by her, for the Uſe of the Publick, of the Medicines prepared by her for the Cure of the Stone.'

A Full Diſcovery of the Medicines given by me Joanna Stephens, for the Cure of the Stone and Gravel; and a particular Account of my Method of preparing and giving the ſame.

MY Medicines are a Powder, a Decoction, and Pills

The Powder conſiſts of Egg Shells and Snails, both calcined.

The Decoction is made by boiling ſome Herbs (together with a Ball which conſiſts of Soap, Swines-Creſſes burnt to a Blackneſs, and Honey) in Water.

The Pills conſiſt of Snails calcined, Wild Carrot Seeds, Burdock Seeds, Aſhen Keys, Hips and Hawes, all burnt to a Blackneſs, Soap and Honey.

The Powder is thus prepar'd:

Take Hens Egg Shells well drained from the Whites, dry and clean, cruſh them ſmall with the Hands, and fill a crucible of the Twelfth Size (which contains nearly three Pints) with them lightly; place it in the Fire, and cover it with a Tile; then heap Coals over it, that it may be in the midſt of a very ſtrong clear Fire till the Egg Shells be calcin'd to a greyiſh White, and acquire an acrid ſalt Taſte. This will take up eight Hours at leaſt After they are thus calcin'd, put them into a dry clean earthen Pan, which muſt not be above three Parts full, that there may be room for the Swelling of the Egg Shells in Slaking. Let the Pan ſtand uncover'd in a dry Room for two Months, and no longer. In this Time the Egg Shells will become of a milder Taſte, and that Part which is ſufficiently calcin'd will fall into a Powder of ſuch a Fineneſs as to paſs through a common Hair Sieve; which is to be done accordingly.

In like Manner, Take Garden Snails with their Shells, cleaned from the Dirt, fill a Crucible of the ſame Size with them whole, cover it, and place it in a Fire, as before, till the Snails have done ſmoaking, which will be in about an Hour, taking Care that they do not continue in the Fire after that. They are then to be taken out of the Crucible, and immediately rubbed in a Mortar to a fine Powder, which ought to be of a very dark grey Colour.

Note, If Pit-Coal be made uſe of, it will be proper, in order that the Fire may the ſooner burn clear on the Top, that large Cynders, and not freſh Coals, be placed upon the Tiles which cover the Crucibles.

Theſe Powders being thus prepared, Take the Egg Shell Powder of Six Crucibles, and the Snail Powder of One, mix them together, rub them in a Mortar, and paſs them through a Cypreſs Sieve. This Mixture is immediately to be put up into Bottles, which muſt be cloſe ſtopped and kept in a dry Place for Uſe. I have generally added a ſmall Quantity of Swines-Creſſes burnt to a Blackneſs, and rubbed fine; but this was only with View to diſguiſe it.

The Egg Shells may be prepared at any Time of the Year, but it is beſt to do them in Summer. The Snails ought only to be prepared in May, June, July, and Auguſt; and I eſteem thoſe beſt which are done in the firſt of theſe Months.

The Decoction is thus prepar'd:

Take four Ounces and a half of the beſt Alicant Soap, beat it in a Mortar with a large Spoonful of Swines-Creſſes burnt to a Blackneſs, and as much Honey as will make the whole of the Conſiſtence of Paſte. Let this be formed into a Ball.

Take this Ball, and Green Chamomile or Chamomile Flowers, Sweet Fennel, Parſley and Burdock Leaves, of each one Ounce. When there are not Greens, take the ſame Quantities of Roots; Cut the Herbs or Roots, ſlice the Ball, and boil them in two Quarts of ſoft Water half an Hour, then ſtrain it off, and ſweeten it with Honey.

The Pills are thus prepared:

Take equal Quantities by Meaſure, of Snails calcin'd as before, of Wild Carrot Seeds, Burdock Seeds, Aſhen Keys, Hips and Hawes, all burnt to a Blackneſs, or, which is the ſame thing, till they have done ſmoaking; mix them together, rub them in a Mortar, and paſs them through a Cypreſs Sieve. Then take a large Spoonful of this Mixture, and four Ounces of the beſt Alicant Soap, and beat them in a Mortar with as much Honey as will make the whole of a proper Conſiſtence for Pills. Sixty of which are to be made out of every Ounce of the Compoſition.

The Method of giving theſe Medicines is as follows:

When there is a Stone in the Bladder or Kidneys, the Powder is to be taken three Times a Day, viz. In the Morning after Breakfaſt, in the Afternoon about Five or Six, and at going to Bed. The Doſe is a Dram Averdupoiz, or Fifty-ſix Grains, which is to be mixed in a large Tea-Cup full of White Wine, Cyder, or Small Punch; and half a Pint of the Decoction is to be drank, either cold or milk-warm, after every Doſe.

Theſe Medicines do frequently cauſe much Pain at firſt; in which Caſe it is proper to give an Opiate, and repeat it as often as there is Occaſion.

If the Perſon be coſtive during the Uſe of them, let him take as much Lenitive Electuary, or other Laxative Medicine as may be ſufficient to remove that Complaint, but not more: For it muſt be a principal Care at all Times to prevent a Looſeneſs, which would carry off the Medicines; and if this does happen, it will be proper to increaſe the Quantity of the Powder, which is aſtringent, or leſſen that of the Decoction, which is laxative, or take ſome other ſuitable Means by the Advice of Phyſicians.

During the Uſe of theſe Medicines, the Perſon ought to abſtain from ſalt Meats, red Wines, and Milk, drink few Liquids, and uſe little Exerciſe, that ſo the Urine may be the more ſtrongly impregnated with the Medicines, and the longer retained in the Bladder.

If the Stomach will not bear the Decoction, a ſixth Part of the Ball made into Pills muſt be taken after every Doſe of the Powder.

Where the Perſon is aged, of a weak Conſtitution, or much reduced by Loſs of Appetite, or Pain, the Powder muſt have a greater Proportion of the calcin'd Snails than according to the foregoing Direction; and this Proportion may be increaſed ſuitably to the Nature of the Caſe, till there be equal Parts of the two Ingredients. The Quantity alſo of both Powder and Decoction may be leſſen'd for the ſame Reaſons. But as ſoon as the Perſon can bear it, he ſhould take them in the above-mentioned Proportions and Quantities.

Inſtead of the Herbs and Roots before-mentioned, I have ſometimes uſed others, as Mallows, Marſh-Mallows, Yarrow red and white, Dandelion, Water-Creſſes, and Horſe Radiſh Root, but do not know of any material Difference.

This is my Manner of giving the Powder and Decoction. As to the Pills, their chief Uſe is in Fits of the Gravel, attended with Pain in the Back and Vomiting, and in Suppreſſions of Urine from a Stoppage in the Ureters. In theſe Caſes, the Perſon is to take five Pills every Hour, Day and Night, when awake, till the Complaints be removed. They will alſo prevent the Formation of Gravel and Gravel-Stones in Conſtitutions ſubject to breed them, if Ten or Fifteen be taken every Day.
